“Its really about the future of the FBI and it's all about the technology, innovation, talent and resiliency”

... Paul Abbate, FBI Deputy Director

The legendary Redstone Arsenal in Huntsville, Alabama became famous decades ago when NASA's Marshall Space Flight Center and the Defense Intelligence Agency's Missile and Space Intelligence center were built there. Over the years the military mission grew and additional government organizations found it the perfect home base.

The FBI team first came to the massive base in the 1970's and has gradually expanded their presence moving more staff to Huntsville in recent years.

Now we invite our FBI Atlanta Citizens Academy Alumni Association members to go behind the scenes and learn about the FBI's unique research / diverse training activities at this iconic site.
